Officials deny reported plan

Space Shuttle landing site at Stennis International?

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Government officials this week denied or professed no knowledge of a plan to utilize Stennis International Airport as an alternate Space Shuttle or other landing site.

The Space Shuttle is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's current space project in which the orbiter and solid fuel rocket boosters are re-used for several Earth orbit missions.

Scientific and military missions are planned for the shuttle which is now in the testing stage.

Currently, the primary orbiter landing area is located in California with an alternate runway at Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the spacecrafts are launched.

Single engine tests and thrust certifications for the orbiter's liquid fueled rocket engines are conducted at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

The airport is located just inside the NSTL Acoustic Buffer Zone and a few miles east of NSTL testing facilities.

The Stennis airport plan reportedly calls for the 8,500-foot runway to be extended northward some 10,000 additional feet across Texas Flat Road and Jourdan River.

Informed sources say that NASA officials at NSTL are working with Sen. John Stennis' office to establish the landing site here.

However, Mack Herring, NASA public information officer at NSTL, Tuesday said there is no validity to the reported plan.

"We checked it out to see if there are any plans, but NASA doesn't have any plan to use the airport as an alternate landing site. That is an official NASA statement," he stated.

When asked if the airport would be used as a primary landing site, Herring said he did not know.

Rex Buffington, Sen. Stennis' press secretary in Washington, D.C., Wednesday morning stated, "We do not have any information about this project at this time."

W. Wilson Webb, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission executive director, Wednesday reported he did not have any knowledge of the plan.

"Conceivably the idea isn't impractical. If this is true it's a good sign that people are waking up about what we have available here," he stated.

"I wish we were being considered in such a plan," Webb added.

The reported reason for the Stennis plan is so the orbiter's booster engines can be serviced at nearby NSTL.

But Herring explained that the liquid-fueled boosters are only tested singly at NSTL and then trucked to the cape for installation on the orbiter.

"He added that the engines on the reusable orbiter are tested as a complete three-engine cluster only briefly on the launch pad in Florida before each flight.

Engineer outlines powerline ill effects

By BRYAN MAGEE
A proposed power transmission line being planned for construction through the northern part of Hancock County, Miss., is being opposed by local residents.

Clyde Brooke, a land owner and part-time resident of northern Hancock County, said he and other local farmers and residents near these lines have high rates of miscarriages.

Brooke stated a 200 foot easement has been surveyed directly across his property in preparation for the line.

He noted the surveyors used no surveying equipment, but only a surveyor's tape.

Following the meeting, Brooke noted he attended the supervisors' meeting to see what they knew about it.

"Most of the supervisors were only vaguely aware that a power line through Hancock County was in the planning stages. They were surprised work had begun in this county."

Wednesday Dr. Charles Beck, a professor of biology at the University of Mississippi, said he was studying the biological effects of high voltage transmission lines, confirmed Brooke's statements about "hazardous effects."

Beck noted he has been studying the issue for the past 20 years.

Beck stated a magnetic field surrounds the lines.

HGH trustees adopt new hospital concept

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The trustees of Hancock General Hospital Tuesday were unanimous in accepting their Long Range Planning Committee's recommendation for the construction of a new hospital in Hancock County.

The committee, composed of persons from throughout the county, included trustees Brother Martin Hernandez and Perry Gibson.

"Brother Martin said, 'The planning committee recommends a new hospital be constructed.' During our many meetings of the group many ideas were openly expressed by its members. We have not selected a site or size as we felt this was not part of the group's responsibility."

Meeting between the trustees and the medical staff of HGH was held prior to the trustees meeting.

It was noted at the trustees' meeting that the majority of active HGH members were in favor of a new hospital.

The trustees for the hospital will hire a firm to prepare a financial feasibility study, according to Philip Langston, HGH administrator.

Langston indicated he would take three to five years to build a new hospital building and facility.

Some discussion was held about the hospital's location.

STORM DESTRUCTION—Robble and merchandise is strewn near the front entrance of a store in Bay St. Louis Tuesday morning. The damage was done by Gary Penton, 28, of 534 St. John Street in that city reportedly rammed his automobile, below, repeatedly through the store front Monday night. The incident ended when the vehicle struck a steel supporting beam shown in the top right of the above photograph. Assistant Chief Gerry Greco of the Bay Police Department Tuesday said Penton is hospitalized and facing a felonious malicious mischief charge in the incident. (Staff photos by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Symposium to eye environmental effect on mental health

"Heavy On Our Minds: Environmental Concerns for South Mississippi" is the title of a two-day symposium being presented by the Mental Health Association in Harrison County March 4 and 5 at Biloxi Hilton Hotel.

Speakers from throughout the state and Florida will discuss how environmental problems are affecting the mental health of Mississippians.

Dr. Wood Hladik, clinical psychologist, at the University Medical Center in Jackson will be the opening luncheon speaker.

Workshops will continue throughout the day and the following morning. There is no admission fee; luncheon reservations are necessary.

For information call 84-6274.

The program is funded by the Mississippi Committee for the Environment.

TUESDAY ACCIDENT—Mobile Medical Personnel huddle over Carl Dye Jr., 28, of 4528 A Homeport St., New Orleans following a collision between a van Dye was driving and an 18-wheel tractor trailer Tuesday at the intersection of US-90 and Waveland Road. According to State Highway Patrolman David Kenny, Dye was northbound on Waveland Road when he drove under an eastbound tractor trailer on US-90 driven by Glen Boyles, 35, of 723 Third Street in Gulfport. Dye was reported in fair condition at Hancock General Hospital with multiple fractures of the right leg. Boyles was uninjured after his truck came to rest some 300 yards further down the highway. The impact of the collision knocked all the wheels off the trailer portion of the tractor trailer and scattered one axle into two pieces. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Hancock officials to study jail improvement expenses

By BRENT MACEY Members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, the county sheriff, and a county coordinator from Gulf Regional Planning will be studying conditions at the county jail to determine if it is feasible to improve present conditions to the point where the county can continue to house state inmates.

Jeff Taylor, Hancock Coordinator for Gulf Regional Planning, told the supervisors at a Monday meeting that state inmates currently being housed in the county jail must be transported to the State Penitentiary in Parchman by June 1, 1982 if conditions are not improved before that date.

He noted an order by Judge William Kelly, a federal district court judge, established the June 1 deadline.

Taylor told the supervisors that the State Attorney General's Office currently does not recommend the Hancock jail as a facility to house state inmates.

The recommendation followed investigations by several state departments, including the State Department of Health and the State Fire Marshall. Into jail conditions throughout the state last year.

Taylor noted the improvements are only necessary if the department wishes to continue to house state prisoners.

Standards established for state prisoners do not apply to county prisoners or pre-trial detainees, he said.

Following the Supervisor's meeting,

Monday Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson noted the county receives $10 per day for every state inmate housed at the jail.

"In 1981 we received some $40,000 from the state," Peterson said.

In reference to the study Peterson said, "We want to see how much money it will cost to bring the jail up to state standards before we decide if the improvements should be made."

Peterson stated he did not feel the county should spend a lot of money improving the jail "since it is obsolete."

"If the work is going to entail a lot of money then we should either look in the direction of transporting the prisoners to Parchman or build a new facility," he added.

The sheriff said improvements to be considered include plumbing, lighting and windows.

At the meeting, Board Attorney Walter Gex noted plumbing improvements may entail only the installation of new commodes.

"We might not have to do a lot of major internal plumbing work," Gex said.

A report on the jail study is expected to be aired at the next supervisor meeting March 15.

In other business, the board accepted the low bid $481,241 from Southland Enterprises of Gulfport for repair work on Beach Boulevard.

Supervisors noted the Bureau of Marine Resources would also have to accept the bid before the contract award is final.

Some $200,000 federal grant for the project has been awarded to the county through BMR. The supervisors have agreed to pay $52,000 in 20 percent matching funds and are hoping that Bay St. Louis and Waveland will also share some of the cost.

In further business the board accepted the low bid of $9,145 from Tulane Chevrolet for a new patrol car for the Sheriff's Department.

Tutor training offered at Gulfport

Library

A free Tutor Training Workshop will be held in the library at Gulfport High School Saturday, March 6 from 9 a.m. to noon.

"We will teach you what you need to know to teach another adult to read and write," said Mrs. N.V. Williams, adult learning center coordinator. Each tutor is requested to devote at least one and one-half hours each week to the program.

With 165 students and 52 tutors, this is the largest literacy program in the state. The entire program, including books and materials, are free to tutors and students.

"The need is urgent. We need at least 20 additional tutors now. You will not receive pay, but you will receive great satisfaction. The adult you teach to read and write will be most appreciative, and when you break the cycle of illiteracy for one adult, that person's entire family benefits, not only now, but for future generations as well," Williams continued.

To enroll in the workshop, contact Mrs. Williams at 632-6757, or Norris Williams, director of Community Education at 668-1122.

The weather has been so nice for the past few days, and Spring has really arrived. We know there probably will still be a few cool days coming, but the better weather looks real good. We have noted several youngsters out flying kites, especially with the day off from school on Tuesday of this week. The kite flying sure brought back many memories of when we were lads and would really enjoy the construction and competition as to who could build the best kite. Of course today, the boys and girls purchase the kites already constructed, but like us, they too have fun.

It was good to see the united effort of the public school teachers of Hancock County on their visit to Jackson on Tuesday. Hancock as well as the Coast was well represented and we are sure the legislators took notice of the educators and should remember them with salary increases, if not this year, for sure next year.

We all must remember the children we are educating today are the leaders of our communities of tomorrow.

We have had several persons comment to us about the unnecessary amounts of trash along US-90 after the Triton Parade.

We hope a better system is instituted before the gala event next year.

As we have mentioned before, a big help would be for the people to take their trash after the parade and properly dispose of it at home.

While on the subject of parades, we understand from Jim Henri, owner of Bay-Waveland Auto Parts, that Pete Fountain and his Half Fast Marchers will appear again in the St. Patrick's Day Parade in Waveland on March 13.

Henri is a member of the group and we are sure he is very instrumental in having them add to the St. Pat's Festivities in Waveland.

Conrad Mauffray, a member of the Waveland Civic Association told us this week that the "Friendly Sons of St. Patrick" of Mobile will also join the local merry-makers at the parade. Local groups and individuals interested in participating in the parade can find an entry blank elsewhere in this issue of the Echo.

We are in hopes this year's annual event will be the largest yet, and the Waveland Civic Association is working hard toward that goal.

So folks, we still have another parade in a little over a week.

We are glad to see the interest of concerned citizens and officials in trying to combat arson in Hancock County.

Each year we have far too many woods fires which threaten residences, timber and all types of wildlife.

All persons are being warned to have a permit for open fires even outside the municipalities.

Those residents outside the cities need to secure a burning permit from the forestry commission's Firetower Road Station, telephone 255-7152.

Of course, persons living in Bay St. Louis or Waveland can secure a burning permit from their respective fire station.

There is no charge for the burning permits, but it gives the respective agencies information as to where persons are going to be burning.

So, please remember, if you are going to do some woods or open burning, you need a permit.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

Symptoms of Sick Economy: Employment Down, Interest Rates Up.

During the last three months of 1981, small business reported the largest decline in employment in eight years. During that same period, the biggest problem facing small-business owners was "Interest Rates/Financing." Those two statistics taken together tell the grim economic news of the last year and suggest that for things to get better, interest rates must come down.

The decline in the number of people working for small businesses was the eighth quarterly decline in the last nine quarters. The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), which produces the quarterly Economic Report for small-business, says the major improvement in 100 opportunities is dependent on the economic recovery of small business. That is because more than 80 percent of the new jobs in the U.S. economy from 1969 to 1976 were created by firms with 100 or fewer employees, the last period for which figures are available.

That same quarterly survey which contained bad employment news showed interest rates to be the main worry of the operators of small businesses. Until the rates come down, the small-business owners will be unable to expand or hire new employees. In addition to making money, too expensive to borrow, high interest rates have caused sales to be sluggish.

That is why the huge deficits projected for fiscal 1982 and beyond are viewed by small-business people with such alarm. Interest rates will not come down as long as the federal government is competing with the private sector for money to finance that red ink.

There are two ways to reduce or eliminate deficits: increase revenues or reduce spending. The Reagan administration and the Congress have made significant progress in reducing the growth of government spending and Congress is now considering the president's budget proposal for fiscal 1982 with still more spending cuts. So far, the cuts fall tens of billions of dollars short of the mark.

A review of some of the more costly elements of last year's tax cut package, such as the so-called "loose" back provision, is in order. Small business is on the ropes. Decisive action is necessary to reduce this vital segment of the economy and the jobs that it represents.

Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT

The Budget Battle

There was considerable discussion to be heard in the Senate Appropriations Committee last week. The committee has opened hearings on national fiscal policy as the first step in determining priorities for government spending next year.

My recent trip to Mississippi confirmed my belief that the nation's economy and high interest rates are of major concern to the citizens of our state.

As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, these hearings will give me a chance to question economic advisors for the administration and the chairman of the Federal Reserve.

During these appropriations hearings, we will be trying to pin down the administration and the Federal Reserve on a strategy for straightening out the economy. I am also urging that the maximum cooperative effort be made to lower interest rates so the economy can have a chance to get moving again. We cannot expect real progress or prosperity until interest rates come down.

During the month of March, I am going to be involved in another series of hearings as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture.

I am pleased with the request for a $4 million increase in agricultural research, and I am also glad to see that the budget recommends a $155 million increase in farm operating loans.

This could be a big help to farmers who are plagued by the higher costs of their daily operations, and this emphasis on research will help with efforts to improve productivity of farmlands.

Another measure in the agriculture proposal that I think our farmers will like is an increase of $4 million for export market development activities.

However, as with most pieces of legislation, there are some parts which disappoint me and will require closer scrutiny. For instance, I am worried about the proposed cuts in the Extension Service.

If the Extension Service is not adequately funded, this might hurt efforts to get the results of research out in our local communities and farms where it can be used. The President's budget also calls for cuts totaling $22 million in the Soil Conservation Service.

Another proposed cut in the committee will be taking a close look at a $2.4 billion reduction in rural housing loans offered by the Farmers Home Administration.

This program has served a useful purpose in our state, and I want to be sure this reduction won't adversely affect people in small towns and communities who require special assistance in meeting housing needs. I think the President is doing a good job of trying to get spending programs under control. But Congress must study carefully all these proposals to see that reductions don't cripple our effort to help satisfy essential needs.

Recent trends downward of inflation and interest rates are very encouraging, but his momentum must be maintained with Congress cooperating with the administration to reduce or eliminate outlays for outdated or wasteful spending programs. In my opinion, we have to consider every department's budget, including defense, as subject to reductions. The ball is now in our court.

CCC EXPORT LOAN POLICY

Senator Thad Cochran reports he will investigate the Commodity Credit Corporation's export loan policy due to problems with Poland and Romania.

The CCC program is too important to our domestic and foreign agricultural structure to have the serious questions raised by overdue payments with Poland and Romania go unanswered, he commented.

Senator Cochran, chairman of the Agriculture subcommittee on agriculture, said he will conduct an in-depth examination of the CCC's export credit policy during his subcommittee's review of the agency's 1983 budget. The panel is scheduled to review the CCC on March 17.

In a letter to Agriculture Secretary John Block, whose department administers the CCC program, Senator Cochran stated:

"With the current economic plight of the American farmer, I am especially interested in getting to the bottom of the CCC's foreign debt-payment issue."

He asked Block and the CCC to provide him with detailed information on the export credit program and policy prior to the March 17 hearings.

Senator Cochran noted that during Senate consideration recently of an emergency supplemental appropriations bill of $5 billion for the CCC, efforts were made to amend the bill and apply restrictions because of the Polish debt situation. Serious questions were raised by concerned Senators over such foreign loan policy of our government.

He commented, "We need a coherent policy for CCC loans, so the program's long-range viability will not be jeopardized by similar situations in the future."

American agricultural exports totaled nearly $44 billion in 1981, including $1.85 billion by the CCC program.

SMUGGLERS

Sen. Cochran is sponsoring legislation toughening criminal penalties on marijuana smugglers.

"Our bill would make the penalties for smuggling marijuana into the United States as high as those now imposed for domestic traffickers in a large scale," Senator Cochran commented.

Two years ago, he pointed out, Congress stiffened the penalties for large scale domestic traffickers in marijuana to 15 years in prison and a fine of up to $125,000.

The new bill, S. 1043, would impose the same penalty on those smuggling marijuana into the United States.

"This should reduce the incentive to participate in drug smuggling," Senator Cochran said. Existing law, he noted, imposes a five-year prison sentence and a fine of up to $15,000.

"Our bill would close the loophole in existing law and make the penalties for both domestic trafficking and smuggling of more than 100 pounds of marijuana consistent," he stated.

Senator Cochran also said he has joined with 20 other Senators in a Senate Drug Enforcement Caucus to help make drug law enforcement a top national priority.

Federal, state and local law enforcement officials report that drug smuggling has greatly increased in recent years, reaching crisis proportions in some areas, and straining severely their enforcement capabilities and the public safety.

"We need a nationwide crackdown on drug trafficking to alleviate this menace to our society," he concluded.

NON-RESIDENT ALIENS

Senator Thad Cochran is supporting a bill to restrict Social Security payments to non-resident aliens.

The legislation would limit benefit payments to the amount such aliens now living outside the United States paid into the Social Security system while working in this country.

"I don't believe we can afford to drain our Social Security funds to support aliens living outside our country," the Senator said, particularly since some of these people have paid only minimal amounts into the system, yet collect substantial benefits for themselves and their dependents.

Senator Cochran commented, "The intent of Social Security is to provide a retirement benefit to the citizenry of our country."

Library exhibit features works by Ducomb students

Students of Nel Ducomb, Hancock County artist, are exhibiting 41 works at City-County Library in Bay St. Louis this month.

Included in the display by 15 of Ducomb's students are paintings utilizing oil, watercolor and acrylic media and drawings in pastel and conte pencil.

The public is invited to view the paintings located in the Crawford Room of the library. Participating in the exhibit are Gladys Haas of Kila, Linda Reiter of the Leetown Community, Karen Smith of Waveland, Sue Bone, Lois Lanning and Ouida Tanner of Pass Christian, Brenda Hatcher and Kay Braswell of Long Beach, Marguerite Hartling of the Lyman Community, and Agnes Taylor, Mae Helen Terry, Ann Byrd, Shirley Sweeney, Alma Gagliardi and Bena Hill, all of Gulfport.

REMEMBER THOSE YOU LOVED WITH A MEMORIAL GIFT TO THE MISSISSIPPI LUNG ASSOCIATION

P.O. Box 9865 Jackson, Miss. 39206

The display will be included as part of the 1982 Bay St. Louis and Waveland Pilgrimage tour on March 24. Reiter will also be exhibiting paintings at the Bay Waveland Garden Club Garden Center in Bay St. Louis that day. Three of Ducomb's paintings will be shown at the center with Reiter's works. Ducomb will be the featured artist in the Diamondhead Pilgrimage on March 19. The one-person show at the Diamondhead Community Center will be open to the public from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. that day. Her Diamondhead exhibit will include paintings and drawings in various media.

EDUCATION OUTLOOK

By Billy D. Sills, Hancock County School District Superintendent

If you look back at school as it was, it was mainly academic. But today, it's not only academic, it's vocational. It's a preparation for the future, not just for the present. It's a preparation for the future, not just for the present. It's a preparation for the future, not just for the present.

So, on one side you have the academic part of education, which is what we're concerned about, and on the other side, the vocational part. It's a preparation for the future, not just for the present. It's a preparation for the future, not just for the present.

These demands have come in one by one over the years. Alcohol and drug abuse weren't problems for teenagers in 1900; they are today. There weren't enough automobiles in 1900 to matter. You didn't have to talk about vocational training in 1900. It was provided by businesses or apprenticeships.

provide an opportunity for educators to say "this part is important." That's what is meant by the educational community reasserting its leadership. I would like to see fewer drop-outs from schools; more students better prepared for college; public confidence in education restored; and deal with the problems that have been created by society.

So it's a whole new set of circumstances that have put demands on time in the schools. All the new factors have "encroached" on the academics. The "relevance" of academics as opposed to all of the more practical concerns have become less clear to many people, yet they are basic and essential. What we're trying to do is to DANCE PRODUCTION - Students from the Hancock County School District performed a dance production in the gymnasium of the Hancock County School District. The production was a success and the students were well-received.

Most drunk drivers are problem drinkers with criminal records

We have been kidding ourselves about drunk drivers. Until recently, researchers thought most drunk drivers were non-problem or social drinkers. But a majority of rehabilitation programs in the country are designed to help people in this category. But a new study by the U.S. Department of Transportation reveals that most drunk drivers are problem drinkers and have a criminal record.

"In view of this, we suggest that the total DUI (Driving Under the Influence) control system must be conceptualized and that the total deviant career of a person must be addressed in addition to drinking and driving behavior," said Jim Landrum, director of the study, conducted by the Social Sciences Research Center at Mississippi State University. The problem of the drunk driver is a complex one for many reasons, Landrum said.

Americans are ambivalent about drinking. They like it or hate it, and for that reason, we don't have adequate laws to protect ourselves from the drunk driver, Landrum said. Many alcohol-related traffic accidents go unreported as a result of society's ambivalence to drunk drivers.

The issue is gaining the attention of a number of United States Congressmen and several citizens groups. Rep. James V. Hansen (R-Utah) has been in two automobile accidents involving drunk drivers within a five-month period. He and a number of other legislators have asked President Reagan to appoint a presidential commission to develop a comprehensive, national plan to address the problem.
